

History and progress in the Financing for Development process at the UN for SIDS

Workshop on "Strengthening the capacity of experts from SIDS to engage in the intergovernmental negotiations on FfD4"

9 December 2024

Ms. Shari Spiegel
Director
UNDESA/FSDO

Brief history of FfD

- 1. Monterrey Conference (2002): First UN summit on global development finance, resulting in the Monterrey Consensus on trade, aid, debt relief, and institution building.
- 2. Doha Conference (2008): Adopted the Doha Declaration, emphasizing financial resource mobilization and calling for a high-level UN review of the financial crisis impact.
- 3. Ababa Action Agenda (2015): Established a comprehensive framework for financing sustainable development, including measures to enhance domestic and international financing, and address systemic issues.

Financing for Development outcomes provide:

- Global framework for financing sustainable development
- Mobilization and effective use of all financial resources for (sustainable) development
- National and international policies to achieve sustainable development
 - Each country has primary responsibility for its own economic and social development with policy space respected
 - Supported by enabling international economic environment and strengthened and enhanced global economic governance
 - Anchored financing flows, financing policies, and the IFA in the development agenda

Linkages to other processes

FfD4 builds on ongoing processes across the UN, G20 and country-led initiatives

- Build on the commitments in the Pact for the Future, adding ambition and detail, and in the Antigua and Barbuda Agenda for SIDS (ABAS)
- Link new commitments at COP29 to provide financial and technical support to developing countries
- Synergies with the G20
 - Build on, reach new agreements, and strengthen actions in line with the Brazil G20 presidency's priority to reform of global governance institutions
 - Aim to have synergies with the G20 agenda under the South African Presidency.
- Build global consensus for 4P and Bridgetown 3.0

Thank you!
