

Intergovernmental Committee of Experts on Sustainable Development Financing

Experts' bios

Latin America and Caribbean Group:

Francisco Gaetani (Brazil)

Mr. Francisco Gaetani, the Brazilian Deputy Minister of the Environment, received his degree in Economics from the Federal University of Minas Gerais in 1984. He obtained a Masters in Public Administration Sciences and Public Policies (1994) and a Ph.D. in Political Science (1999) from the London School of Economics. He has held several positions at the Brazilian Ministry of Planning, Budget and Management, including Acting Deputy Minister in 2008. He was also assistant to the UN's Resident Representative, General Coordinator of UNDP in Brazil, Director of the Brazilian School of Public Administration and Director of the School of Government/João Pinheiro Foundation in the state of Minas Gerais.